

Maintain Separate Tracking Applications in the Same Software

Your organization may need to keep track of more than the system you are considering. If you are looking at a tool tracking solution (Tool Hawk), you may want to keep track of spare parts or materials. With the solutions provided by Data Support, Inc. you have the ability to manage all these tracking requirements in the same system! There is no need to purchase more software or maintain separate systems.

What the systems share are the same user and location database. Each can have their own separate item database, reports or labels. The separate tracking applications can be loaded onto portable terminals as well.

Maximize your investment by using our solutions to be a central tracking resource of anything of value in your organization. Ask one of our sales specialists to show this money saving feature to you.
